Foreword and Introduction

By Councillor Sue Jones, Chair of the Task Group

The increasingly ageing population is great news for South Ribble and our society generally. Older people provide a massive positive contribution to our local communities. However, the increasingly ageing population also presents challenges in ensuring older people have a good quality of life and that support is available and provided when needed.

One of the increasingly important challenges for older people is loneliness and social isolation which, whilst being very sad and very personal, also has the knock on effect to people's health and wellbeing. This in turn involves the health services, adult social care and a myriad of other organisations and partners. This review has looked at some of these key issues.

We have tried to be as inclusive as possible in our review and talked to as many people as possible, but we appreciate that this is only the start and we strongly recommend that more work is done to bring people together and to engage and involve older people directly.

Our review has found some excellent and impressive examples of good work by organisations and individuals across South Ribble, which we hope can be rolled out and shared across the Borough for the benefit of our older residents.

There is definitely a will from everyone that we have heard from to help make older people's lives as comfortable, safe and fulfilling as possible, but as we have discovered this is fragmented and could result in a large group of people 'falling through the net'.

The approach to this review has not been about reinventing the wheel as it has already been invented. Our approach has been to try to help to join the spokes up to the hub and come up with some important but achievable recommendations.

We would like to stress that whilst everyone has a moral and ethical obligation to help tackle loneliness and social isolation, local authorities such as South Ribble Borough Council and Lancashire County Council have a legal obligation. We must take this responsibility and obligation seriously.

We would like to thank all those partner organisations, older people, councillors - and everyone involved in our review for all their great help and support with the review.

It is hoped that our review will help raise the profile and build on the good work that is taking place to prevent and deal with loneliness and social isolation now and for future generations.

We commend the report and look forward to working together further on this important issue.

Rationale for the Review

South Ribble Borough Council's Scrutiny Committee has a strong track record of carrying out in-depth reviews with partner organisations on major issues which affect the quality of life of local people in South Ribble. The Scrutiny Committee shares the vision of wishing to make South Ribble a great place to live, work, visit and play!

As part of the Scrutiny Committee's work of looking at the key issues affecting the Borough and the release of data from the 2011 Census, the increasingly ageing population was flagged up as a topic, which it was felt needed further exploration.

It was also recognised that a number of partners from the public, voluntary, community and faith sectors all worked at providing older people's services, but there was no feel how these partners would be able to respond to the projected increase in the ageing population.

The Scrutiny Committee had carried out a major review of the quality of life of older people some 10 years ago and it was now felt an appropriate time to take a new look at this major issue. This review learnt from that experience and decided with the time available it was important to concentrate on a more focussed topic to ensure it had maximum impact.

Scrutiny Committee Review Team

- ► Councillor Sue Jones (Chair)
- ► Councillor Mick Titherington
- ► Councillor Frances Walker
- ► Councillor Linda Woollard

Additional support at the start of the review was provided by:

- ► Councillor Colin Coulton
- ▶ Councillor Alan Ogilvie

Review Aims and Objectives

- 1. To identify the key issues affecting older people in South Ribble
- 2. Define loneliness and social isolation affecting older people
- Consider national research on the implications of loneliness and social isolation of older people
- 4. Gain an understanding of how individuals at risk of and experiencing loneliness and social isolation are identified

- 5. Identify and evaluate measures currently in place to prevent and tackle loneliness and social isolation in South Ribble
- 6. Identify and highlight examples of good practice in South Ribble and more widely
- 7. Make recommendations on what can be done to improve loneliness and social isolation for older people

Methodology

As part of scoping the review the Task Group looked in detail at the Census 2011 data outlining the projected increase in the ageing population to ascertain the potential breadth of the issue going forward.

The Task Group also considered the previous Scrutiny Review of the Equality of Life of Older People completed 10 years ago to see what work had happened at the time, the recommendations and where possible the progress made.

A great deal of desktop research of other scrutiny reviews from around the country was carried out and also that was produced by bodies such as AgeUK, Independent Age and the Age Alliance etc.

Due to the size of the review and many potential angles it could take, it was agreed as part of the scoping that the Task Group would meet with key partners to find out what the key issues were and the focus that the review would take. At an early stage the Task Group met individually with:

- ► Terry Mears Lancashire County Council Adult Social Care
- ► Linda Chivers Age Concern Central Lancashire
- ► Anthony Sudell and Tony Roberts Lancashire County Council Public Health
- ▶ David Halpin and Janet Gray AgeConsulting
- ► Paul Simic Lancashire Care Association
- ▶ Mark Gaffney and Denise Johnson South Ribble Borough Council

Whilst the review was being scoped, the Council's Leyland My Neighbourhood had organised a Christmas party event for older people in the area it was agreed to carry out a brief survey of attendees at the party to help focus the review on what mattered to older people themselves.

The Task Group then used all the valuable information gathered to focus the review on loneliness and social isolation affecting older people. The next stage of the review therefore included:

Councillor Learning Hour – with 25 councillors attending, this was an opportunity to gain views from elected Members, find out what the local issues were, share good practice and come up with solutions that would work at a local level.

A Stakeholder Workshop – attended by over 60 representatives of the public, community, voluntary and faith sectors who helped identify the key issues, barriers and potential solutions to tackling this major issue. The Task Group secured the North West Manager of the new charity, The Silver Line to be the keynote speaker and set the context and scene at this major workshop.

The workshop was also designed to share good practice and examples that would help partners reflect and learn from each other. A copy of each of the 106 examples of good practice gathered as part of the workshop is included in Appendix 4. The feedback from those attending the workshop was excellent and some of the contacts and relationships made are continuing.

There was also liaison with The Silver Line charity, Independent Age and Campaign to End Loneliness at this stage of the review to carry out further research.

Review Background

The title of this review is loneliness and social isolation, but these are two separate concepts but linked through the impact they potentially have on people. These concepts are states of mind and not always visible or able to be understood.

"Loneliness can be defined as a subjective, unwelcome feeling of lack or loss of companionship. It happens when we have a mismatch between the quantity and quality of social relationships that we have, and those that we want"

Perlman and Peplau (1981)

Research has shown that 6-13% of older people feel lonely often or always. It is estimated that the number of people aged over 65 who are often or always lonely at over one million.

With regard to feeling socially isolated:

- ▶ 12% of older people feel trapped in their own home
- ▶ 6% of older people leave their house once a week or less
- ▶ Nearly 200,000 older people in the UK do not get help to get out of their home
- ▶ 17% of older people are in contact with family, friends and neighbours less than once a week, and 11% are in contact less than once a month
- ▶ 51% of all people aged 75 and over live alone

These are very stark and sad figures. Behind these figures are real people and real issues.

Where people feel lonely and socially isolated this impacts on their health and wellbeing:

"Individuals who are socially isolated are between two and five times more likely than those who have strong social ties to die prematurely."

Michael Marmot (2010)

In addition to the health impact on the individuals, there are wider impacts on local health services, links to community service and the ongoing care and wellbeing of individuals. There is a serious financial implication on support and dealing with the results and therefore prevention is best for individuals and public sector funding.

Some of the potential triggers for loneliness and social isolation could be:

- Poor health
- Loss of mobility and physical disability
- Bereavement
- ▶ Retirement
- ► Financial changes
- Caring for others
- ► Lack of public transport/accessibility
- Family changes
- ▶ Lack of local facilities such as toilets, benches etc.

The wide variety of potential triggers presents challenges in responding and tackling the issues, with some down to individuals and the support that they receive.

Outcomes

In carrying out this review and looking at all the evidence and information, it is felt that the following key aspects can help to tackle loneliness and social isolation:

- ▶ A strategic approach
- ► Engage all stakeholders and older people themselves
- ldentifying those lonely and socially isolated, share data and information
- ► Tailor services to meet the individual needs of older people
- ► Look at how to prevent loneliness and social isolation
- Raise awareness of the issues to encourage different ways of thinking
- Neighbourhood action and partner working

Conclusions

Responding to the ageing population will be one of the biggest challenges society will face in the future. A key element of the impact of the ageing population is the increasing number of older people who suffer from loneliness and social isolation. This will have a major impact on the way our communities work and significant financial impact on public service providers unless more is done to prevent and tackle loneliness and social isolation.

The Task Group found that there was some great work happening in South Ribble to support older people through a wide variety of stakeholder groups. However, based on the Task Group's research, there is more to do to co-ordinate this work, strengthen partnership work, reach out to those affected and encourage more local community actions.

Throughout the research and speaking with partners the important and statutory role of local authorities, including South Ribble Borough Council, to prepare for the increasingly ageing population and particularly tackling loneliness and social isolation was stressed. In coming up with its recommendations the review used the principles of 'Council guided and community led' in its approach.

Please add any comments you might have on the workshop:

- Enjoyed attending the workshop, brilliant discussions held within the group.
- Very well organised with opportunities for meeting and discussions with representatives from a wide range of organisations.
- Excellent format with a great deal of potential outcomes. Please could we have details about the organisations attending.
- ▶ They were very useful and relevant to the work we carry out.
- Wonderful organisation and great food.
- Informative to hear about other work with older people.
- Some of the questions were duplicated or not concise enough minor detail.
- ▶ Well thought out, previous work on the subject has been listened to. Please keep us this good work so valued. Thank you.
- Some of the questions could have been more concise.

- Very informative
- ► I was particularly impressed with the attendance and representatives from different organisations.

Are there any further comments or suggestions you'd like to make that might help the Scrutiny Committee with their review of loneliness and social isolation affecting older people in South Ribble?

- ▶ A lot of people are referred from GPs it would be interesting to get 'loneliness' numbers from each GP. Also, numbers of dementia, Alzheimer's, deaf and Parkinson's sufferers and are these people included in the loneliness numbers?
- ▶ Need at some point to implement all the suggestions made.
- ▶ Need to look at 'at risk' people not known to services, people that are hidden i.e. people living alone, recently bereaved, carer etc. Put information in community services where people access.
- ▶ Worden Park and the Walled Garden Project run by the Brothers of Charity are having many mini open days to encourage people to become involved from children upwards! (Very good for people by themselves to become involved.
- ▶ Very good workshop, wide range of delegates; lots already happening, information can be disseminated by various routes e.g, pharmacy; shops; pubs; my neighbourhoods; DIY stores etc.
- ▶ I'm very keen to receive follow-up information.
